

My Journey to the Stars

I am the human

I am the human because I know love. I was born a sacred feminine through the womb of a sacred feminine on this sacred earth. I grew from my heart and I can learn to speak its language. As the foetus in my mother's womb I have my greatest connection to the divine , and I was born with that spark within, my eternal flame and with the internal fortitude and will to live to drive me forward learning how to create my own bubble of reality . Born through the forgetting of the birth canal but I know I have the means to access my memories in light, so I can learn how to dream my own great dream of peace.

For as a human I was born with all the knowingness within, already having the connection to all that is was and will be.

I have the ability to learn to be the shaman of my own technology and I am human because I can use my heart mind to connect again to the foetus and call forth my ancient future wisdom in order that I may learn, grow, evolve, to love unconditionally. To find the scared neutrality that is my birthright. I am human because I have the rights of passage to discover the resources that carry me through the challenges of life on Earth. I am human. I live love and learn. At times I learn through repetition which brings illumination which I use for self growth , self discovery. I am human because I know I carry the blood of my ancestors, and I feel my heart beat and know it beats for all ancestors. And when I do the work of self healing I heal all ancestors past present and future. I was born with choices and potentials of my own, to carry forward the mantle of responsibility to be the self illuminated master.

A human knows in their heart there is something more beyond the petty distractions of the global narrative and survival living . I am human when I see through the programmes that run us, and I work to eliminate them from my life, so that it's my heart mind that makes my decisions and gives me my perspectives. I have the skill sets to hack this hologram and fortify my own hologram

As a human I'm unique. I am a catalyst for change . I know I hold infinite potential. Born with the wisdom within me of why I dream this dream. I'm human when music moves me to tears and yet can make me dance. I'm human because I can feel my heart singing. Because I laugh and cry, sing and speak , run and dance, and sleep and dream. I can smell the sweet smell of hay and when rain is coming. I feel the tugging of winds in my hair and the warming of the sun on my skin. I breathe in the sharp freshness of the chill air on a frosty winters day. I can smile. I am the human recognising my heart is full of undiscovered treasures and that I'm here to make the unknown, known. As a human I have choices, the choosing of which creates yet more choice points. I have the choice to use Imagination and vision which opens me up to cocreate with great spirit and great mystery, a beautiful never ending voyage of discovery.

As a human my prayers are prayers of thanks and poems and connections from my heart to my ancestors.

I am the hero

This is when the human evolves enough to make self aware choices to step out of mediocrity. A hero turns acquired knowledge into wisdom by action. I am the hero by becoming awake and aware that I am more than I have heard read or studied and having the courage to develop an unlimited point of view. To create Sacred space and carve out sacred time and to use out loud name it to claim it statements . Even when the whole world seems to be yelling at you that you're being selfish. I am the hero by committing myself to a path of self discovery and self healing which is not in alignment with the system of mediocrity and distraction. The system that tells you they know best and that without it you'd be struggling. A hero knows that out creating the system will help them reclaim their own sovereignty. A hero steps forward to do their great work regardless of the projections put upon them by those around them , including love ones , who are still in the hypnosis of obedience and slavery. A hero's stance is frightening to those who unquestionably conform. A hero can lose friends and family through this fear. I am the hero because I've had to fight back tears when my truth is met with scorn and ridicule. Teasing from others is a giveaway of their fear of change. When my sacred neutrality is seen as weakness and my intent questioned as a human my heart can break but as a hero I know with a deep unwavering belief that this is part of the journey I must go through. As I hero I learn to conquer old habit patterns that are working against me , and I stop arguing for my own limitations. A hero is not a martyr. I do not sacrifice my own needs for others. I am a hero by being sovereign and working on my own development and healing, allowing others to do the same if they should choose to take up that mantle of responsibility. A hero does not tread on another's journey, but commits themselves to their own path. I am a hero because I know it's not what you think it's what you believe and I've chosen to believe in me. Self trust. Self acknowledgement. Self nurture.

Facing obstacles in the seen and unseen world and taking on as a discipline the spiritual hygiene and sacred practices and ceremonies as a scheduled heart agenda driven need to maintaining an increasing frequency and sovereignty and the setting of sacred boundaries. The path of a hero is not easy. You must own your core self, own your power in a system that wants to take it from you in all kinds of overt and covert ways. I am a hero as I make myself aware to this and have spiritual practices and postures that keep me sovereign. A hero knows the path of truth can be a lonely road, but does not operate as a hermit practitioner, for that serves no purpose for the greater good. A hero has recognised the illusory limitations set up by the self , and has done the work to overcome the worry and fear, recognising that they are the product of a lack of trust in the self. Therefore a hero has learnt self trust.

My daily spoken prayers and meditations have become Prayer Dances of joy with music that makes tears flow.

I am the champion

As a Champion I throw off all shackles in the seen and unseen world . I offer my full service in contribution to the light. I am a champion when as a self illuminated master I can see through the trickery and lies of the system of domination and control, yet I do not confront it. For I know that in that action I'm adding more of the same frequency. A champion has learnt to out create the system by sacred living. By revocations, claiming sovereignty, ceremonies,alchemy, and aligning with the frequencies of earth, of the natural way of living. A champion lives in the divine flow and creates sacred ways and moments, and has learnt to live from one sacred moment to the next, as moment to moment sacred living on earth. Living the mystical life daily. In a seamless bonded stream of self healing, self worth , self value and self appreciation and unconditional love. You cannot trigger a champion into retaliation . A champion will open their hearts because they are not afraid, and pour out the endless stream of love that flows through them. Yet they are not fools. Champions have learnt the lessons of life of self protection from energies not coming in equal cocreation to syphon life force. And they are prepared. They have mastered the discipline of spiritual hygiene and know it is a discipline. I am a champion for I have been through the deepest fear of a shamans death, of extreme anxiety, disturbance, loss of life force, hollowness and emptiness before the separation of densities removed old selves there to distort and destroy or work against my I am self. This takes the courage of a champion. I am the champion when I know how to flip the frequencies and engage my precognitive workforce of I am presences so I may be the sole arbiter of my life, outcreating the systems plans for me. As a champion I'm engaging many of the skill sets I've learnt as a synthesis of human and hero. Victories are not seen as glorification. Victories are a personal achievement of being a sacred neutral observer and learning from the rights of passage that are milestones to my own personal spiritual path.

The dancing of the prayer dance for a champion is beautiful. It is in divine flow with the heart of a warrior and the mind and body of a sacred feminine , the music carrying me to the depths of my soul in joy.

I am the unvanquished great dreamer of peace

And from my heart spaced knowingness pours the unlimited love for all sentient kind, a deep wisdom that knows the potency of peace. I am unvanquished, unconquerable because I chose sovereignty of the self. I chose self mastery. I chose to be a signature frequency match to peace. I am a peacemaker and peacekeeper. As the great dreamer of peace I recognise that all spiritual paths are to be honoured, for all must follow their own inner guidance and heart. A great dreamer of peace works in the seen and unseen worlds, dreaming into the dreamspace of loved ones, repatriating soul shards and bringing back wholeness , repairing and bonding fractualised dream spaces. I have stood up in dreams as a sovereign potent being carrying my staff bound with feathers and crystals to protect others and myself. I have removed entities from the dreamspaces of myself and loved ones. I am unvanquished. And I know as that great dreamer that we all have the potential to dream the great dream of peace and to create the 5th world of peace by dreaming that dream.

I know that every step as walk as the Unvanquished great dreamer of peace is one that is In synchronicity with Great Spirit. Great spirit works through me and with me. Words flow whether spoken, written or typed. I have remembered who I am and why I dream this dream.

I am the mighty manifestor of the great dream of peace and unity, i honour myself as self illuminated master holding the Great Dream of Peace . I Ride the Celestial Winds of Change with heightened awareness, integrity and intuition, carrying the message of the unvanquished dream of peace. For I am unconquered , a sovereign arbiter of peace.

As the unvanquished great dreamer of peace my luminescence will help awaken my sleeping brothers and sisters of earth, the next generation of peacemakers and peacekeepers. As i show loving lightness and grace and a new way of living on earth i carry the universal message of sovereignty, freedom and peace. I am so free i chose to experience the illusion of non freedom on earth. As the The Unvanquished great Dreamer of peace I pilot a voyage as a great medium of peace sharing knowledge of sovereignty consciousness, maxims of equity. For I had the courage to look within and read the encodings imprinted in my heart since my first birth of all eternal births.

And my Prayer Dance is under the stars , with a heart full of joy, where I call forth spirals of stardust from the ends of my outstretched fingers. And peace fills my soul. For I know I have earned this rights of passage.

i am the dragon

As an Unvanquished Dreamer of the Great Dream of Peace I now to conjure my dragon. I Initiate the force of my dragon with my deep breath and surrender to this zero point energy, the raw spirit and pure grace that is me . As the dragon I feel the the harmony of my body being in touch with the universe . To move me through different dimensions at speed , to raise my awareness , to take me beyond my mind and help me move my energy and shift any stagnation so i may gain greater clarity . I am the Dragon. We are the Ancient ones, the great holders of the Universal truths, our Ancient freedoms, ancient knowingness, our ancestors . When I'm a dragon I harbour with in me the Adventure of spirit. I am a trailblazer into the velvety depth of all time space, of all the galaxies and universes and beyond that which out create even the grandeur of my current perspective . I trust in myself. Riding the synchronised flow of the energies as I create new pathways , weave new dreams and programme realities .I ride the currents and cosmic air flow of the Four Celestial Winds free and untethered, so i may create new dream spaces with the thread of the eight colours of time. I am the seeker of knowledge, the returning voyager of all time space weaving new streams of light , igniting the peacemakers fire with my dragon breath, and lighting the Torches that show the path to the 5th and 6th world of universal peace. Discovering the past present and future. Spreading the message of unity wherever I go. I manifest my own sovereign layer of reality, and know my path will best be served with humility and right action, giving up any illusions of control and deepening the relationship with all that is was and ever will be. As the dragon my sacred heart will be my compass in all frequencies of light, for I am a grand source connected being. When i cocreate with the eight colours of time i become my own elder of this time of earth. I am the Dragon. This is my legacy.

And my Prayer Dance is in divine flow. It lifts my dragon wings . And all I know is love and beauty in all its forms.

Aho
