

Teaching and Invocation of Divine Purpose

I take my seat in my heart and take myself to my foetus in my mother's womb. My place of interconnectivity to all that is was and will be. My greatest connection to Source and the divine being that is me. For here is where my power and potency lies. That time before the forgetting of the birth canal and the imprinting of fraud time and the reality rules of manifestation. This is my divine blueprint that carries my eternal wisdom and purpose, the very reason for my manifestation in this time space equation. And it is my birthright and legacy to connect to this foetus energy and know my purpose. Before the imprinting of the system of domination and controls choices enforced upon me through the global narrative in my unawareness.

I now make the sovereign choice to create my own narrative for myself that drowns out and out creates this global narrative incursion into my reality. I say these sacred words built from heart spaced wisdom of lifetime to lifetime knowingness and awareness. I am a sovereign being claiming all of my experiences this lifetime and all lifetimes that give me my own sacred point of view I need no other source other than my sacred self expression. For great mystery and great spirit works through me and with me. I do not require global narratives messages to decide my purpose for me based on their need to harvest my energy to support their facade. Global narrative your voice and messages become ever more desperate in an attempt to distract me from following my own path of inner healing and I see through your pretend stance of being the giver and knower of all truths. You can no longer make choices for my future or influence my future. I harness my own narrative of my own truth to connect to my rights of passage that speak louder to me than the global narrative.

I look deep in to my soul and claim my birthright of speech from my heart, of song, of voice of prayers, of dance, of poetry and writing of any creative expression I choose which helps me define my purpose on earth at this time. For it is in the expression of creativity that we will find our purpose. For creativity takes us out of the monkey mind of chatter and distraction and allows space for our authentic selves to shine. For if I allow that, in that space of sacred self, I will find my reason for being.

There are those who make the choice to never ask the question of their purpose. Or they ignore the synchronicities and messages their patient souls flag up time and time again. They might never choose to know their purpose this life time or they have unwittingly handed over their choice of a future to the system or to the self imposed programs that subtly divert them away from true source connection to their purpose. We are not here to decide on another's purpose, for it is in their own inner work of self mastery that that purpose will uncover itself. Celestial teachers are often asked the question from those who are not recognising that the discovery of their own potent presence will beg a path or paths to be created and cocreated with their higher selves, earth mother, guides, guardians angels and ancestors. For potent presence requires an outlet and outcome of self. A path that was created by our ancestors laid and mapped out for us. For we laid that path ourselves. And whether we choose to follow that this lifetime and lay the foundations for paths for our future selves depends very much on how we connect to our purpose. We start many paths in life through distraction and disharmony that lead us nowhere. And it is in the full awareness of this that those self illuminated masters bring harmony to distortions and call out distractions so they may be intimate with their own divine purpose that becomes exposed as everything not required for their journey falls away.

We uncover purpose through self illumination, self mastery , recognising our unlimited potential, letting go of expectations. We are all here to dream the great dream of peace , in a void of infinite potential. But how we choose to engage our frequency of life force remains our own sovereign choice.

There are many ways on our journey of self discovery to find our purpose. It's not always an ah ha moment. Sometimes it's trial and error, what flows , what doesn't. But the key to purpose is passion . What do you feel is your magical quest this life time ? Focus on that. What's missing in your life that if you engaged it would bring you the joy, flow, harmony, peace that you seek and that you truly are. From that you will uncover the exquisite magic that is you.
